Holistic therapy is based on traditional knowledge and natural treatments. Drugs and medication can have side effects that can happen deep inside the dog's body. You don't have to choose between conventional medicine and holistic practice they work amazing alongside each other. Whilst your vet can provide veterinary intervention through medication holistic therapy is based on understanding the dog's needs and problems as a whole. By combining the two and working together we can source the reason and treat the symptom, rebalancing the body. Itchy skin, stomach upsets, arthritis etc are treated with drugs and no change to lifestyle and diet therefore the symptoms will keep returning. We promote an ethical, skilled professional approach ensuring that all therapists we train respect the Veterinary Act 1966 and Exemptions Order 2015 and commit to never working on a dog without vet consent.
